ADVERTISEMENT.

On submitting to the Public a New Edition of Debrett's Baronetage of England, the Proprietors beg respectfully to announce that, although they have been deprived of its original Compiler and Editor, they have resolved to continue the Work under the Title with which it first appeared; and, stimulated by the flattering Patronage which the former impressions experienced, they have used every exertion to render the present still more deserving of attention.

In this Edition not only have those Additions been inserted which time and recent creations have rendered necessary, but numerous corrections have been made in the accounts of many families, and a complete new set of Plates has been engraved, which the Proprietors trust will be found much beyond those of any former Edition, not only in execution but in correctness; and they flatter themselves that, as they have used their utmost endeavours to render the present superior to any of the preceding Editions, it will meet with a reception no less gratifying than that which the former impressions have been honoured with.

The Proprietors have only to add, that although the exertion of diligence and industry may enable them to give authentic accounts of the earlier parts of the several fa milies recorded in the Work, their present state can be correctly obtained only by the means of communications from the families themselves. They gratefully acknowledge the favours of this nature already received, and most respectfully solicit further information; and they beg leave to announce that they will be most happy to furnish to any Baronet, who may be pleased to honour them with his commands to that effect, a copy of the article relating to his own title, for correction in a future Edition.

 Address to the Editor of Debrett's Baronetage, at Messrs. Rivington's, Waterloo Place, or St. Paul's Churchyard, or at any of the other Proprietors'.

PREFACE.

The Title of Baronet is an hereditary dignity, intermediate in rank between the Peerage and Knighthood. The Order was founded by King James First in 1611, and owes its origin to the laudable anxiety of that monarch for the settlement and civilization of Ireland. That country, during nearly the whole reign of his predecessor, had been desolated by wars of the most remorseless description; the rebels, or native Irish, were at length completely subdued by Elizabeth, but so late in her reign that the task of civilizing the people she had conquered, of reconciling them to laws and industry, of rendering their obedience durable, and their subjection useful to the crown of England, devolved entirely on her successor. In this work, according to Hume, King James proceeded by so steady, regular, and well connected a plan, that in the short space of nine years he made more advances towards the reformation of that kingdom than had been made in the four hundred and forty years which had elapsed since the conquest of it was first attempted.

The province of Ulster had been particularly depopulated during the wars, and its whole proprietorship vested in the crown by the attainder and forfeiture of the rebels; for its settlement, English adventurers were encouraged to go over, grants of land were made to them, and to any Englishman who would undertake to maintain thirty soldiers there for three years, at the rate of 8d. per day, and to remit the first year's pay into the English Treasury, the degree of BARONET was held out as an honorary reward, with a solemn undertaking on the part of the Sovereign that neither he nor his successors would at any time in future institute a degree of hereditary dignity that should intervene between the Baronets and the Peerage of the realm. To mark more strongly the object of this Institution, every Baronet was authorized to add in a canton or escocheon on the armorial bearings of his family the arms of the province of of Ulster, being "a sinister hand, couped at the wrist gules," or, as it has been since more familiarly termed, the bloody hand.

At the first institution of the Order, its numbers were limited to 200; and its members carefully selected from the most wealthy and distinguished families of landed gentry. In subsequent periods, although landed property and interest has always been much regarded in these promotions, many other considerations, arising out of the circumstances of the times and the progress of society, have been allowed to direct the royal favour. In the reign of the first Charles it was at once the stimulus and reward of devoted loyalty; by his son, it was often bestowed as an honorary recompense for sufferings and attachment, on which he was unable or unwilling to confer more solid remuneration. As the commerce of our country increased, the wealthy and distinguished Merchant learned to look forward to it as the well earned meed of long continued and successful industry. In the last and present reign, we have seen it associated with all that was eminent in science, respectable in wealth, or distinguished in Public service, whether civil or military; the man who scorning, even in youth, the allurements of riches, braved the dangers of every clime in the pursuit of science, and dedicated his whole after-life to its promotion; the profound and upright dispenser of the Laws; the Physician who arrested the progress, or soothed the pains of disease; the Philosopher who subjected to chains the element of fire; and the Poet whose genius has shed a lustre on the literature of his times, will be found, associated with the Heroes of the Nile, of Trafalgar, and of Waterloo, and with the statesmen whose exertions at home sustained and directed the efforts of the warrior, and supplied the means of victory, in the list of BARONETS created by King George IV. and his Royal Father.

The rank and precedence of Baronets is immediately after the younger sons of Barons, and before all Knights, whether of the Orders or Knights Bachelors, except Knights of the Garter and Knights Bannerets created in open war under the Royal Banner displayed, the King himself, or the Prince of Wales being present. Commoners, however, who are of his Majesty's Privy Council, the Chancellors of the Exchequer, and of the Duchy of Lancaster, the Judges, and the Master of the Rolls, take precedence of Baronets.

The eldest son of a Baronet on coming of age, may claim the honor of Knighthood.

BACON, of Redgrave, co. Suffolk.

22 May 1611.

Sir EDMUND BACON, premier Baronet of England, born 1779, succeeded his father, sir Edmund, 5 Sept. 1820; married 27 Aug. 1801, Anne, daughter of Edward-Dashwood Bateman, of Ottery St. Mary, co. Devon. esq., and by her (who d. 23 Oct. 1820) had issue, 1. Edmund, b. 1803; 2. Anna-Maria, b. 1804; 3. Harriet-Laura, b. 1805; and, 4. Frances, b. 1808.

This family is descended from Grimbald, who came into England with his kinsman William, earl of Warren, at the Norman invasion, and settled at Letheringset, near Holt, in Norfolk. His great-grandson, Robert, took the name of Bacon, and from him descended an illustrious luminary of the darkest ages of science, friar Roger Bacon.

The above-named Robert had a brother, sir William, of Monks-Bradfield, in Suffolk; from whom descended, in the 10th generation, sir Nicholas Bacon, who filled the office of lord keeper of the great seal to queen Elizabeth, with high reputation, and d. 20 Feb. 1579, having m. 1st, Jane Fermley, and 2dly, Anne, one of the 6 das. of sir Anthony Cook, of Giddy Hall, co. Essex, all of whom were admirably skilled in Greek and Latin. Sir Anthony was one of the tutors of King Edward VI. By the latter he had 2 sons, the younger of whom was that prodigy of human talent and acquirements, sir Francis Bacon, b. 22 Jan. 1550-1, was of Trinity College, Cambridge, and afterwards of Gray's Inn; appointed counsel-extraordinary to the queen, 1588, solicitor-general to king James I. 1607, attorney-general 1613, a privy-counsellor 1616, lord keeper March 1616-17, and lord chancellor 1618, created baron Verulam in the same year, and viscount St. Alban's, 20 Jan. 1620-1; but being shortly afterwards accused of corrupt practices, and confessing in a great measure his guilt, he was sentenced, on the 3d of May 1621, to be fined forty thousand pounds, and to be imprisoned in the Tower during his majesty's pleasure; was rendered incapable of holding any office, sitting in parliament, or coming within the verge of the court. After a short imprisonment his fine was remitted, and it is probable the whole of his sentence was cancelled, as he was again summoned to parliament in the first year of Charles I. He d. 9 April 1626, having by his labours in retirement, during the latter part of his life, made a brilliant atonement for his errors. He m. Anne Barnham, da. of an alderman of London, but left no issue. Sir Nicholas, the lord keeper, by his first wife, had 3 sons and 3 das.

FOULIS, of Ingleby Manor, co. York.

6 Feb. 1619.

Sir WILLIAM FOULIS, bart., succeeded his father Sir William, in 1802.

This surname is of French extraction, and is derived from the word feuilles, which signifies leaves, to which their arms allude, being three bay leaves, &c.

Taylor, in his History of Gavelkind, states, that one of this name was a considerable person in Kent, previous to the Norman Invasion, and, that being treated with great severity by William I., he fled into Scotland. The family appears to have been numerous, and considerable proprietors of land there in very early times; for there are several baronies and fine seats in the cos. of Perth, Angus, Ross, &c., which bear the name of Foulis, and probably have been the property of people of that surname. Reginaldus de Foulis is witness in the 1st charter to the lord high steward of Scotland, temp. Alexander II., but the immediate ancestor of the family was

William de Foulis, who lived temp. Robert II. and III.

I. Sir DAVID, 3d son of James Foulis, being in great favour with king James I., accompanied him into England, and was knighted, 13 May 1603, and had afterwards the dignity of bart. conferred upon him; he was cofferer to prince Henry, eldest son of king James, and after his decease he bore the same office under prince Charles, afterwards king Charles I. He was made one of his majesty's council for the northern parts, and custos rotulorum and deputy lieutenant for the north riding co. York; but as he appealed with some zeal, in 1632, against the commission which was issued to compel gentlemen to compound for not having taken the honour of knighthood, to which they were obliged by an obsolete law; he and his eldest son, Henry, were censured for it in the court of Star-chamber, in 1633; sir David was declared incapable of all the offices and places which he held, was committed prisoner to the Fleet during his majesty's pleasure, fined 5000*l.* to the king, and 3000*l.* to lord Wentworth; for the payment of which fines he was compelled to sell part of his estate. His son and heir, Henry, was also committed prisoner to the Fleet during his majesty's pleasure, and fined 500*l.* Sir David m. Cordelia, da. of William Fleetwood, esq., serjeant at law, and recorder of London, in the reign of queen Elizabeth, by whom he had issue 2 das.: 1. Sir FRANCIS BURDETT, bart., succeeded his grandfather, Sir Robert, 22 Feb. 1797, born 25 Jan. 1770, married 5 Aug. 1793, Sophia, youngest daughter of Thomas Coutts, esq., banker in Westminster (sister of Susan, Countess Dowager of Guilford, and Frances, Dowager Marchioness of Bute), by whom he has issue: Sophia, b. 13 June 1794; Robert,

Robert, 26 April 1796; Susanna, 29 Nov. 1800; Joanna-Frances, b. 2 July 1804; Clara-Maria, b. 9 Dec. 1806; and Angela, b. 25 April 1814. He represented Borough-bridge, in 1796, and was returned at the general election in 1802, one of the knts. of the shire for Middlesex, after an extraordinary contest; the election being declared void by a committee of the House of Commons, he again offered himself, and though not returned by the sheriffs, on petition sir Francis obtained his seat; but was afterwards turned out on a petition. Sir Francis was elected in the present and last two parliaments for the city of Westminster.

Hugh de Burdett, came into England with William the Conqueror; he left issue,

William Burdett, lord of Louseby, in Leicestershire, who founded the priory at Ancote, co. Warwick, temp. Henry II., to expiate the murder of his wife. This William being a devout man, made a journey to the Holy Land, in order to subdue the Infidels: his steward, in his absence, attempted the chastity of his lady, who resisted him with scorn. On his master's arrival in England, he went to meet him, and to cover his own crimes, complained of her looseness with others, which so enraged her husband, that when she approached to receive him with joyful embraces, he mortally stabbed her.

The family had large possessions in Warwickshire and other cos. for many generations. One of them was,

Thomas Burdett, esq., who from the 7th to the 14th of Edward IV., was in commission for conserving the peace; but in 1477, he incurred the king's displeasure for his affection to the duke of Clarence. So strict were the eyes and ears of his enemies, that an advantage was soon taken to deprive him of his life; for, hearing that the king had killed a white buck in his park at Arrow, which he set much store by, he passionately wished the horns in the belly of him who moved the king so to do; for which words he was arraigned and convicted of high treason, upon inference of a mischievous meaning to the king himself, and was beheaded in 1477.

I. THOMAS, the 18th in descent from de Burdett, was advanced to the dignity of a bart.; m. Jane, da. and heiress of William Frauncys, of Foremark, esq., which seat has, since since that time, been the chief residence of the family. II. Sir JOHN, his only son, was elected one of the knights co. Worcester, 15 Charles I., and when the rebellion broke out was a member for Aylesbury. He was entrusted by the king in 1642, with a commission for arraying men for his service in Worcestershire; on account of which he was taken prisoner, committed to the Tower, and fined 5000*l.*, had his estate sequestrated, his house in Buckinghamshire (one of the best in that county) levelled with the ground, and such great wastes committed in his woods, that an estimate of his loss, now remaining in the hand-writing of his lady, amounts to 20,348*l.* Notwithstanding he had suffered so much for his loyalty, he had the courage to go with a troop of horse to Charles II., at the battle of Worcester, and was taken prisoner there; but when the rebels tried him for his life (upon an indictment of his raising and heading a troop at the battle of Worcester), they could not procure one witness to swear against him; he was therefore acquitted, and set at liberty, but was afterwards fined 7670*l.*

TICHBORNE, of Tichborne House, Hampshire.

8 March 1620.

Sir HENRY-JOSEPH TICHBORNE, born 5 Jan. 1779, succeeded his father, sir Henry, 14 June 1821: married 23 April 1806, Anne, 4th daughter of sir Thomas Burke, of Marblehill, co. Galway, bart., and sister to Eliza, countess of of Clanricarde, by whom he has issue Elizabeth-Anne, born 28 May 1807, and Frances-Catharine, born 18 March 1809.

This family is presumed to be of Saxon origin. Sir Roger de Ticheburne, a valiant knight, was possessed of the lordship of Ticheburne, in Hampshire, temp. Henry II. and by marriage with Mabell, sole heir of the family of Lymerston, in the Isle of Wight, had also possession of that estate, and left issue by her 2 sons and a da.: sir Walter de Tichebourne, knt.; Geffery; and Phelippe.

In the succeeding generations, this family continued to be of great note and consequence in the county of Hants, which they frequently represented in parliament; and,

I. Sir BENJAMIN TICHBORNE, was created a bart., and received other honours and emoluments from king James I. to whom he had rendered himself particularly acceptable, by his forwardness in proclaiming his accession to the crown of England, throughout his county, without waiting for any orders from the government: m. Amphilis, da. of Richard Weston, esq., one of the justices of the common pleas, and had 4 sons: sir Richard, 2d bart.; Walter, Benjamin, and Henry, all 3 knights; and 3 das.: and departed this life in 1621.

Of his das. Henry, his 4th son, distinguished himself in Ireland during the great rebellion in that country, in which this branch of the family settled, and in the first year of George I., Henry, grandson of the above named sir Henry (after having been created a bart.), was created, in 1715, baron Ferrard, of Ferrard, co. Louth. But this peerage became extinct in him, his only son (except 2 who d. young) having been, in his father's lifetime, cast away and lost in his passage from Ireland to England.

King Charles made him lieutenant of the New Forest, Hampshire, and James II. constituted him lieutenant of the ordnance. He d. in 1689, and by Mary, his wife, da. of William Arundel, esq., brother to Thomas, lord Arundel of Wardour, had issue 3 sons, sir Henry-Joseph, 4th bart.; John and Charles, who d. young; and 3 das. The Palmers of Wingham are descended from a very ancient family at Angmerin, co. Sussex. The surname of Palmer owes its rise to that zeal which for some ages drew many persons of distinction to embark in the crusades for carrying on the Holy War. The soldiers who returned home frequently brought a branch of palm of the growth of Palestine, and wore it as a sacred badge and token that they had performed their vows of fighting against the Infidels; and from this they were called Palmers, as sir Henry Spelman tells us. In the number of these warriors were some of the ancestors of this ancient family.

DERING, of Surenden-Dering, co. Kent.

1 Feb. 1626.

Sir EDWARD DERING, bart. succeeded his grandfather, sir Edward, 30 June 1811.

There is a tradition by which this family is traced to a very ancient Saxon origin; but Hasted, in his History of Kent, says, the only account he has been able to gather from the family papers, is, that the family of Dering is descended from Norman de Morinis, whose ancestor was Vitalis Fitz-Osbert, temp. Henry II., and which Norman had a son named Deringus de Morinis.

I. Sir EDWARD, the 15th in descent from Deringus, was knighted 22 Jan. 1618; made lieutenant of Dover Castle, and created a baronet 1 Feb. 1626, and was afterwards one of the knights in parliament for Kent. He was a man of parts and learning, his vanity to shew which, induced him to present to the house of commons a bill for extirpating bishops, deans, and chapters, which he did with two verses of Ovid, the application of which was said to be his greatest motive.

Cuncta prius tentanda, sed immedicabile vulnus
Ense recidendum est, ne pars sincera trahatur.

His repentance and apology for this conduct offended the republicans so much, that he was declared a delinquent by the commonwealth; but escaping to the king, he had the command of a regiment of horse, which post illness made him relinquish, and retiring with his wife and children to one of his farm-houses, he there died on 22 June 1644. During his continuance with the king, his whole estate was confiscated, his newly-furnished house was four several times plundered by the parliament's soldiers, his goods and stock were all seized and taken away, his farm-houses and fences ruined and destroyed, his woods and timbers felled; so that few suffered more than he did for his inconsistent conduct.

BURGOYNE,

BURGOYNE, of Sutton, co. Bedford.

Admiral 15 July 1641. Mus d'Ff

Sir JOHN-MONTAGU BURGOYNE, bart., born 17 Oct. 1796, lieutenant grenadier guards, succeeded his father, sir Montague-Roger, 16 Aug. 1817, married 7 Jan. 1819, Charlotte, da. of the late Michael Head, esq.

William Burgoyne died seised of part of the manor of Wotton, co. Cambridge, 1456; Richard Burgoyne d. 1463, seised of the manor of Bossoms, in Wotton, and other lands, co. Bedford; Thomas Burgoyne d. 1516, at Sutton, in the same co. (the present residence of this family), and appears to be the first to have been connected with Sutton, of which the family appear to have been possessed until the year 1588, probably by purchase from the Powleys. The learned bishop Stillingfleet was presented to the rectory of Sutton by sir Roger Burgoyne, 2d bart., and here he is supposed to have written his "Origines Sacræ"; he resigned the living 1665, which is now, by purchase from the Burgoynes, in the patronage of St. John's College, Oxford. There is a current tradition that the manor of Sutton was bestowed in a rhyming grant by John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, on Roger Burgoyne, ancestor of the present possessor: the tradition, however, as far as it relates to the grant, appears to be totally destitute of foundation; and there is no positive evidence that Sutton was ever possessed by John of Gaunt, although he appears to have claimed it, 1366, from being entitled under a deed, by which it was entailed on the heirs of Thomas, earl of Lancaster. The manor was then in the possession of Elizabeth Latimer, widow. In an old manuscript in the British Museum, the grant from John of Gaunt is noticed in the following words:

> "I, John of Gaunt
> Do give and do graunt
> To Johny Burgoyne,
> And heirs of his loyn,
> Sutton and Potton,
> Until the world's rotten."

Potton belonged to the Burgoynes, but at what period does not appear. They also held the manors of Girtford and and Halelep, alias Hasells, in Sandy, co. Bedford; the former in 1540, and the latter during the reign of Elizabeth: in 1663, they were sold by John Burgoyne, to Ephraim Huit, esq.

Fuller notices a William Burgoin, of Devonshire, esq. d. 12 Aug. 1623, whose epitaph, on a marble stone, in the church of Arlington, is in the following terms:

"Here lies Will. Burgoin, a squire by descent,
Whose death in this world many people lament:
The rich for his love; the poor for his almes;
The wise for his knowledge; the sick for his balmes;
Grace he did love, and vice controul,
Earth has his body, and heaven his soul."

Robert Burgoyne, esq., was a person of considerable note temp. Henry VIII., and one of the auditors of the exchequer. He was also one of the commissioners appointed by that king to take the surrender of the monasteries, co. Warwick, and other counties, and to send an account of their state, and the religion and virtue of the nuns.

Of this ancient family was Robert de Boveton, who had issue Richard, father of William, temp. Edward III. His great-grandson, Thomas, is mentioned by Dugdale as being possessed of the manor and seat at Lawford, by marriage, about 1440, with Elizabeth, da. and heiress of Geoffrey de Allesley, of that place, which he chose for his residence.

I. Sir WILLIAM, 1st bart., m. Abigail, eldest da. of Henry Baker, esq. Addison; Anne, d. 1685; Mary; and Abigail, wife of —— Barton. Edward, 2d son of Edward, by his wife Anne, left 2 das.: Elizabeth and Catharine, wife of Heward Hoxburgh, and 1 son, William of Rugby, m. Anna Deacon (afterwards wife of William

The sudden death of sir Theodosius, at Lawford Hall, 29 Aug. 1780, then in his 21st year, created such strong suspicions, and such as were pointed to Mr. Donellan, by various odd and questionable circumstances in his behaviour, that the body was taken up for examination, after it had been deposited in the family vault at Newbold, and in pursuance of the verdict of a coroner's inquest, Mr. Donellan was committed to prison at Warwick; where he was, on the 29th of March following, indicted for the supposed murder, before Mr. Justice Buller; was found guilty, guilty, after a trial which lasted twelve hours, and executed at Warwick, 2 April 1781. The poison, by which this horrid act was perpetrated, was declared to be laurel water; and although, to the last, Donellan made protestations of his innocence, little doubt could be entertained of his actual guilt. The said Shuckburgh d. 1763. On the marriage of his late majesty, George III., 1761, Mrs. Boughton was appointed one of the 6 bedchamber women to the queen, in which station she continued till her death, 1 March 1786. Their issue were, 1. Arthur, who d. in his infancy; 2. Edward, the late bart.; 3. On the memorable day that the Hanoverian succession bill passed the house of commons, in the beginning of queen Anne's reign, sir Arthur Owen, bart., member for Pembrokeshire, and Griffith Rice, esq., member for Carmarthenshire, prevented the friends of the present royal family from being left in a minority. If it had not been for these two gentlemen, there is little doubt but the tory party party in parliament, by the influence of the then tory ministry, would have soon carried it for the Pretender to succeed his sister queen Anne!

The particulars, known now but to few, as related by the posterity of these families, are:—

Sir Arthur Owen and Mr. Rice on that day, met accidentally in the lobby, when the tory administration were stealing the question through the house at an early hour; when a majority of their friends attended by design, and when many of the whigs were absent, not thinking it would come on till the usual hour.

When the house was about to divide, one of the whig members, seeing a seeming majority in favour of the house of Stuart, exclaimed that the whole was an infamous proceeding. He immediately ran out of the house, almost frantic, in search of some of his partizans, to give a turn to the question in favour of the elector of Hanover.

Perceiving sir Arthur and Mr. Rice, as he came out, walking earnestly about the lobby, he addressed them thus with much vehemence,—"What do you mean, gentlemen! —staying here when the Hanoverian succession bill is going to be thrown out of the house?"

"When I heard that," sir Arthur used often to relate, "I made but one step into the house, and my voice made the number equal for the bill, 117, and the tories had no more. Mr. Rice, with great gravity, coming after me, had the honour of giving the casting vote in favour of the Hanover succession! Had it not (added sir Arthur) been for the warmth of my zeal, being then a young man, this honour would have been mine; for as Mr. Rice was my senior, I might have followed him into the house."

Sir Arthur, d. 6 June 1753, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

IV. Sir WILLIAM. He m., 1st, Elizabeth, da. and sole heiress of William Lloyd, of Grove, co. Pembroke, esq., by whom he had 1 da.: 2dly, Anne, da. of John Williams, of Chester, esq., who d. 21 Dec. 1764, by whom he had 4 children. Sir William d. 7 May 1781, and was succeeded by his son, broke to his death; who dying unm., Aug. 1809, bequeathed his large property to John Lord, esq., now sir John Owen, bart. (son of Corbetta, da. of lieut.-general John Owen, above-named), but the title of bart., of 1641, devolved upon

Sir HENRY, the 1st bart., testified his loyalty by lending to king Charles I. a considerable sum of money in his most pressing necessity, even at a time when there was little probability of ever being repaid. But his support of the royal cause stopped not here, for he (at his own expense) levied and accoutred a troop of horse, in the regiment of col. John Frechevile (afterwards lord Frechevile), whereof he himself was lieut.-col : and this young hero, not then 22 years of age, at the battle of Edge-hill so signalized himself, that king Charles knighted him in the field of battle, and soon after created him a baronet. Not long after, making a bold attempt upon the enemy, near Bestwood Park, in Nottinghamshire, in a skirmish with some of the adverse party in ambush, he received a cut with a sword on his elbow, which so disabled his right hand, that it hung useless in a scarf to his dying day; for his loyalty to his sovereign he was fined 1458*l.* by the sequestrators.

O'NEILL, of Upper Clanaboys, Ireland.

13 Nov. 1643.

Sir RANDAL O'NEILL, bart., succeeded his father, sir Henry; married Mrs. Margaret Thompkins, by whom he has one son, William, b. about 1754, and one da. Rachel.

Wotton says this family is descended from Hugh Meyth, who was king of Ulster in 1122, when Henry II. landed in Ireland;

Ireland; but as Henry II. did not land in Ireland till 1172, when Roderic or Roger was king, and who succeeded Murrough Mac Neil, in 1168, probably this last-named prince must be the person supposed the ancestor of this family. His grandson, Hugh Boy O'Neill (from whom the territories called the Clanaboys, in the counties of Down and Antrim, received their names), recovered those countries from the English (who had conquered them from the Irish), temp. Henry II., and enjoyed the same till the reign of king James I. One of the family still enjoys a considerable part thereof; the rest has been partly recovered from them by force of arms, and partly purchased in James the First's reign, who instituted the order of baronets, in order to raise money for subduing the O'Neills in Ulster, and as a further reward and encouragement, the Ulster hand (being part of the O'Neills' arms), was given as an augmentation to the arms of each baronet. The present sir Randall O'Neill is supposed to be the 14th in a lineal descent from the last king of Ulster.

In early times, their arms were, three oak leaves, on a bend, between two lions rampant.

The present sir Thomas is the 23d in a lineal descent from Hugh de Accalen, seated at Accalen in 1155.

I. Sir JOHN, 1st bart., so created March 1, 1644-5, with precedency before all baronets created since the year 1644, who engaging very zealously in the service of king Charles I. greatly impaired his fortune, not only by raising, but supporting at his own charge, a party with which he garrisoned his house at Columb-John; which at one time, as lord Clarendon remarks, was the only force the king had in the county of Devon, to control the power of the earl of Stamford, then at Exeter. Upon the decline of the king's affairs, his house was plundered, and himself fined for his delinquency, by the commissioners at Goldsmiths' Hall, 1800*l.* which, not being thought sufficient, was afterwards, by vote in parliament, increased to 4000*l.*; but upon great application it was reduced to the first fine. He was, in consideration of his services, advanced to the degree of baronet; but amidst the confusion of the civil wars, the letters patent were destroyed, and new ones not being granted till the year 1677, by reason of a long minority in this family, there was in them inserted a special clause of precedency, from the date of the first, 24 June 1644.

* Lady Harriet Acland accompanied her husband to Canada, in 1776, under the command of General John Burgoyne. In the course of that campaign, she had traversed a vast space of country, in different extremities of seasons, and with difficulties that a European traveller will not easily conceive, to attend her husband in a poor hut, at Chamblée, upon a sick bed.

In the campaign of 1777 he was severely wounded, and she crossed the Lake Champlain to join him.

When he recovered, lady Harriet followed his fortunes through the campaign. Major Acland commanded the British grenadiers, the most advanced post of the army. A tent, in which the major and lady Harriet were asleep, one night suddenly took fire. A serjeant of grenadiers, with great hazard of suffocation, dragged out the first person he caught hold of. It proved to be the major. In the same instant, lady Harriet made her escape, by creeping under the walls of the back part of the tent. The first object she saw was the major on the other side; and at the same instant again in the fire, in search of her. The serjeant again saved him, but not without the major's being very severely burnt. Every thing they had in the tent was consumed.

This accident neither altered the resolution nor the cheerfulness of lady Harriet, and she continued her progress, a partaker of the fatigues of the advanced corps. The next call upon her fortitude was of a different nature. On the 19th, the grenadiers being liable to action at every step, she had been directed by the major to follow the route of the artillery and baggage, which was not exposed. When the action commenced she alighted near an uninhabited hut, but becoming general and bloody, the surgeons took possession of the hut, as the most convenient for the first care of the wounded. Thus was the lady in hearing of one continued fire for some hours, with the presumption, from the post of her husband, that he was in the most exposed part of the action. She had there, for female companions, the baroness of Reidesel, and the wives of major Harnage and lieut. Reynell; but in the event their presence added little to her comfort. Major Harnage

Ilchester, by whom he left 1 son, John, successor to his grandfather, and a da., Elizabeth-Kitty, b. Dec. 1772, m. April 1796, Henry-George, lord Porchester, present earl of Carnarvon,

Harnage was soon brought to the surgeons very badly wounded, and a little while after came intelligence that lieut. Reynell was shot dead.

From the date of that action to the 7th of October, lady Harriet, with her usual serenity, stood prepared for new trials, and their severity increased with their numbers; she was again exposed to the hearing of the whole action, and at last received the shock of her individual misfortune, mixed with the intelligence of the general calamity; the troops were defeated, and major Acland, desperately wounded, was a prisoner. On the succeeding day, the only refuge of these ladies was among the wounded and the dying.

After so long an agitation of spirits, exhausted, not only by want of rest, but absolutely want of food, and drenched in rains for twelve hours together, lady Harriet, nevertheless, passed to the enemy's camp, to attend her husband; and in an open boat, accompanied by the rev. Mr. Brudenell, a female servant, and a wounded valet, she rowed down the river to meet the enemy. But her distresses were not yet at an end: the night was advanced before the boat reached the enemy's outposts, and the centinel would not let it pass, nor even come on shore. In vain Mr. Brudenell offered the flag of truce, and represented the state of the extraordinary passengers. The guard threatened to fire into the boat if they stirred before daylight. Her anxiety and sufferings were thus protracted through seven or eight dark and cold hours; but it is due to justice, at the close of this adventure, to say, that she was received and accommodated by general Gates, with all the humanity and respect that her rank, her merits, and her fortunes deserved.

Let such as are affected by these circumstances of alarm, hardship, and danger, recollect that the subject of them was a woman of the most delicate frame, of the gentlest manners, habituated to all the soft elegancies of high birth and fortune; and far advanced in a state, in which the tender cares, always due to the sex, become indispensably necessary. Her mind alone was formed for such trials.

(Exemplified to sir Francis, 22 April 1678.)

Sir HENRY EDWARDES, bart., succeeded his father, the rev. sir John-Thomas-Cholmondeley, 23 Feb. 1816.

The first ancestor mentioned in this family pedigree is Ynyr Caduroch, a nobleman in Mælors, one of the barons of the prince of Powis, descended from the king of Powis, who was descended from Gurtherin (called by the English Vortigern), earl of Eurgain and Ewyas, in Herefordshire, and afterwards king of the Britons, about the year 450. II. Sir FRANCIS, succeeded his father in dignity and estate; though the latter was very much impaired by the family's great sufferings in the civil wars, in which it is supposed the baronet's patent was lost; for, in April 1678, a new one was granted to Francis (then sir Francis) Edwardes, of Shrewsbury, with a special clause for precedency before all barts. created after the year 1644, viz. according to the former patent. This sir Francis was a colonel of foot in the service of king William, and d. in Ireland, about 1690: m. Eleanor, da. of sir George Warburton, of Arley, co. * Sir Henry Chauncy, in his Antiquities of Hertfordshire, p. 466, speaking of sir Francis Pemberton, gives this admirable character of him:—" He would not suffer any lawyers upon trials before him, to interrupt or banter witnesses in their evidence, a practice too frequently used by some counsel in bad causes, to trifle with and obstruct justice; but allowed every person liberty to recollect his thoughts, and to speak without fear, that the truth might be the better discovered; neither would he permit counsel to ask impertinent questions, nor make long speeches nor harangues in courts, to mislead juries, but heard all persons with great deliberation, patience, indifference, and impartiality, distinguishing clearly between truth and falsehood in his directions to the jury, that they might not err; and delivered his judgment in all causes depending before him, with great justice and solemnity; no temptation of profit or preferment, no threats nor menaces of deprivation, nor loss of place nor honour, could move him to act any thing against law. This family is descended from William, son of Henry de Langham, who held land in Langham, in Rutlandshire, 10 Edw. I.

The 14th in lineal descent from him was,

I. Sir JOHN, 1st bart. He was knighted by King Charles II. at the Hague (with James his eldest son), being one of those principal citizens, deputed by the city of London to wait on his majesty in Holland. He largely contributed towards the support of the royal family during their exile. He was sheriff of London in 1642, and member of parliament for the said city in 1654, and for Southwark in 1660. He was one of those aldermen sent to the Tower with sir John Gayer, knt., lord mayor of London, in 1647; and again in 1648, with sir Abraham Reynardson, knt., mayor, Thomas Adams, and James Bunce, esqrs., aldermen, for refusing to publish an act, entitled, "an act for the exheredation of the royal line, the abolishment of monarchy in the Kingdom, and the setting up of a Common-wealth". He was b. at Northampton in 1584, and m. Mary, da. of James, and sister of sir James Bunce, knt., by whom he had many sons and das. This family is of very great antiquity co. Warwick, and is supposed to be descended from a younger son of Turchil, earl of Warwick; but their ancestors have been seated at Shuckburgh, and have borne that name, at least ever since the year 1138.

Sir Richard Shuckburgh, knt., father to the first bart., was representative co. Warwick in parliament, 1641. As king king Charles I. marched to Edgcott, near Banbury, on 22 Oct. 1642, he saw him hunting in the fields; upon which, he fetched a deep sigh, and asked, Who that gentleman was, that hunted so merrily that morning, when he was going to fight for his crown and dignity? and being told it was sir Richard Shuckburgh, he was ordered to be called to him and was very graciously received; upon which he went immediately home, armed all his tenants, and the next day attended on him in the field, where he was knighted, and was present at the battle of Edgehill. After his majesty's retreat from those parts, he went to his own seat, and fortified himself on the top of Shuckburgh Hill, where, being attacked by some of the parliament forces, he defended himself till he fell, with most of his tenants about him; but being taken up, and life perceived in him, he was carried away prisoner, first to Northampton, and from thence to Kenilworth Castle, where he lay a considerable time, and was forced to purchase his liberty at a dear rate. Sir WILLIAM-WILLOUGHBY-WOLSTAN DIXIE, bart., succeeded his brother sir Beaumont-Joseph, 20 July 1814; married, 21 Nov. 1815, Bella-Anna, youngest daughter of the rev. There is a tradition that this ancient family is descended from Wolstan, earl of Ellenden (now called Wilton), who m. the sister of Egbert, the first English monarch. Another asserts asserts (upon a relation of sir Walter Littleton, chancellor of Lichfield), that one of the Dixies m. the da. and heiress of —— Wolstan, of Wolstan, co. But Dugdale, in his "Warwickshire," intimates, that Wolstan was so called (quasi Wulfricston) from some Saxon possessor named Wulfric. The first we find in the visitations of the Herald, is Wolstan Dixie, living about the reign of Edward III., who was seated at Catworth, co. Huntingdon.

Description

Description of the Borstall Horn, now in the possesion of sir John Aubrey, bart.

King Edward the Confessor had a royal palace at Brill, or Brehul, in Bucks, to which he often retired, for the pleasure of hunting in his forest of Burnwood. This forest, it is said, was much infested by a wild boar, which was at last slain by one Nigel, a huntsman, who presented the boar's head to the king; and for a reward, the king gave to him one hyde of arable land, called Derehyde, and a wood called Hulewode, with the custody of the forest of Bernwood, to hold to him and his heirs, per unum cornu, quod est charta prædictæ forestæ. Upon this ground Nigel built a lodge, or mansion-house, called Borstal, in memory of the slain boar. For proof of this, in a large folio vellum book, containing transcripts of charters, and evidences relating to this estate (supposed to have been written in or before the reign of Henry the Sixth), is a rude delineation of the site of Borstall house and manor; and under it, the figure of a man presenting on his knees, to the king, the head of a boar on the point of a sword; and the king returning to him, a coat of arms, arg. a fess, G. between two crescents, and a horn, vert.

The same figure of a boar's head was carved on the head of an old bedstead, now remaining in the tower or lodge of that ancient house or castle: and the arms are now to be seen in the windows, and in other parts. And what is of greatest authority, the original horn, tipt at each end with silver, gilt, fitted with wreaths of leather, to hang about the neck, with an old brass seal ring, a plate of brass, with the sculpture of a horn, and several lesser plates of silver, gilt, with fleurs-de-lis (supposed to be the arms of Lisures, who intruded into this estate and office, at or soon after the Conquest), has been all along preserved by the lords of Borstall, under the name of Nigel's horn; and is now, 1824, in the possession of sir John Aubrey, bart., to whom this estate has descended without alienation or forfeiture, from a period prior to the Conquest to the present time, by several heirs-female, from the family of Nigel to that of Aubrey.

The Borstall horn and chartulary were, by permission of sir John Aubrey, exhibited to the Society of Antiquaries, by Mr. Southouse, member of the said society; who have caused to be engraved this very interesting memorial and instrument of ancient conveyance, and the curious plan of the the manor, taken at the time of compiling the chartulary, as described by bishop Kennet.

An inquisition was taken in the reign of king Henry the Third, A.D. 1266, in which are the following words: Prædictus Wilhelmus filius Nigelli et antecessores sui tenuerunt dictas terram et ballivam de domino rege ante tempus conquestûs Angliæ per unum cornu, quod est charta prædictæ forestæ.

This horn is supposed to have belonged to the bison, or buffalo; and is of a dark brown colour, variegated and veined like tortoise shell. It is 2 feet 4 inches long on the convex bend, and 23 inches on the concave. The inside, at the large end, is 3 inches in diameter; being perforated there so as to leave the thickness only of half an inch for about three inches deep; but further in it is thicker, being not so much, nor so neatly perforated.

William de Lisures intruded, as lord of the fee of Borstall, temp. W. Conq.: Fulk de Lisures succeeded him, temp. Hen. I., and he was succeeded by his son William, who d. 2 Richard I., 1190, having granted his fee of Borstall, and the office of forester of Bernwood, to William Fitz-Nigel; from this pretended title to Borstall, and the custody of Bernwood, it seems that one of the family of Lisures had it certified, that being forester of fee to the king, he was, by his office, obliged to attend him in his army, well fitted with horse and arms, his horn hanging about his neck. Borstall being thus restored to its original lords, the Nigels; William Fitz-Nigel d. 1204; 3. John, leaving by Mabil, his wife, John, his son and heir, who paid the king 10 marks for his father's office, and license to marry. He d. 1234, 18 Hen. III., leaving, by his wife Isolda, John, his son and heir, who d. 1300, 29 Edw. I., leaving issue, an only da., Joan, m. to John Handlo, to whom he conveyed this estate. Her mother, Isabel, released to her and her husband all her right and dower in this and other manors, 1305. In 1312, 5 Edw. II., the king granted license to sir John Handlo, to fortify his house at Borstall with a wall of lime and stone. He d. 1346, 20 Edw. III., leaving for his heir Richard, his grandson, 7 years old. Upon his death, 1355, 29 Edw. III., this manor came in property to his eldest sister, Margaret, who took to her second husband John de Apulby; her sister, Elizabeth, m. sir Edmund de la Pole, who, in her right, succeeded to this manor, on the death of Margaret and her husband husband without issue. Catharine de la Pole, second da. of Elizabeth, and sir Edmund, m. Robert James, esq., who, in her right, on the death of her elder sister, had this manor, and d. 1432, 10 Hen. VI. having had issue, Christina, wife of Edmund Rede, esq., who d. 1430, 9 Hen. VI. In his descendants it continued for three generations, till by marriage of Catharine, his great-grand-daughter, with Thomas Dynham, esq., it was held by that family for near 70 years; and passed thence by marriage to Lawrence Banistre, esq. His da., Margaret, brought it to William Lewis, esq., 1648, as did their eldest da., Mary, to her second husband, sir John Aubrey, bart., ancestor to the present possessor.

MOSTYN, of Mostyn Hall, co. Flint.

3 Aug. 1660.

Sir THOMAS MOSTYN, bart., knt. of the shire, co. Flint, in the last 3 and present parliaments, succeeded his father, sir Roger, 26 July 1796.

The family of Moston, co. Flint (which is the true name, though, in compliance with the pronunciation of the country, it is usually written Mostyn), is descended from Tudor Trevor, lord of Bromfield, Chirk, Maelor, Whittington, and Oswaldstree. He was earl of Hereford, in right of his mother, Rheingar, grand-da. and heiress of Caradoc Vraichfras, earl of Hereford, who was slain by the Saxons, 788, or 796, to revenge the death of Offa, their king, killed in the battle of Ruddlan, two years before. This Caradoc is styled, in the History of Cambria, published by Dr. Powell, 1584, king of North Wales, on account of his great possessions in that country; for, being driven out of his own estate by Ethelbald, king of Mercia, after the battle of Hereford, Conan Tindæthwy, then king of Wales, received him, and gave him the lands between Chester and Conway, to inhabit.

Tudor Trevor (who, in the British genealogies, is reckoned to be lineally descended from Vortigern, king of the Britons) m. Gwaleddis, or Angharad, da. of Howell Dda, king of all Wales; by whom he had 3 sons.

This

This Tudor Trevor lived about A.D. 924, and his usual residence was at Llys Pengwern, in Chirkland, co. Denbigh, which scite, and lands about it (though the house has long been destroyed), are in the possession of the family to this day.

The wife of Jevan, the 8th in descent from Tudor, was grand-da. of Eleanor, eldest da. of Edw. I. and queen Eleanor.

I. Sir ROGER, took arms in defence of Charles I., and raised 1500 men for his service at his own expense, whom he also maintained; and after he had taken the castle of Hawarden, entered, with his regiment, into Chester, then besieged by the rebels. He also repaired the castle of Flint at his own charge, of which he was appointed governor, and kept it for the crown, enduring a long siege and the greatest hardships; and though reduced to the last necessity, did not deliver it up until he had the king's special order. He spent above 60,000*l.* in the service of the crown; and had his house at Mostyn so plundered and stripped, that he was forced for several years to live at a farm-house in the neighbourhood, after he had obtained his liberty from his imprisonment in the castle of Conway. He was, on the restoration of the royal family, created a bart. He m. 1st, Prudence, da. of sir Martin Lumley, of Barfield, co. COLLETON, of London.

18 Feb. 1660.

Sir JAMES-ROUPELL COLLETON, bart., lieut.-colonel in the army, and assistant quarter-master-general, succeeded his father, sir James-Nassau, 17 Jan. 1815: married 12 Dec. 1819, Septima-Sexta-Colleton, daughter of rear-admiral Richard Graves, of Hembury Port, co. Devon, and has issue a son, b. 30 March 1821.

This family is supposed to have entered England with William the Conqueror from Normandy; for we find that one of the great-uncles of the first sir John Colleton went to recover possession of some small estate belonging to the family in that duchy; sold it, and there died without issue. By a very ancient grant, from Reginald de Villecore, to Thomas Colleton, of an estate, and by subsequent deeds, in the the beginning of Edward I, we find they stiled themselves gentlemen, and gave the same arms as now borne.

They have been resident many years in Devonshire, and there are now villages in that county called after their names: as Colleton Raleigh, Colleton Bury, &c.

I. Sir JOHN, the first bart., had been very active, and had expended large sums in the service of Charles I., and in recompense of his great services (in addition to the dignity of baronet conferred on him), in conjunction with the Duke of Albemarle, earl of Clarendon, earl Craven, and four other noble persons, had granted to them and their heirs large dominions in North America and the Bahama Islands.

Sir John left 4 sons, 1. sir Peter; 2. Thomas; 3. James; and 4. John: and 1 da., m. lieut.-gen. Stewart; 3 of the sons m. in Barbadoes, and had issue; and John d. unm. in St. John's College, Oxford.

II. Sir PETER, the eldest son, was a commissioner of the public accounts many years. He left but one son, sir John, 3d bart., and 3 das., the eldest of whom d. unm.; the 2d m. the earl of Rivers, and left issue; the 3d m. in Barbadoes.

III. Sir JOHN, who succeeded him, m. Elizabeth, da. of John Snell, esq., and had 3 sons, 1. John (who m. a da. of the rev. Mr. Snell, by whom he had sir John, 4th bart. and Susanna-Boone, d. Dec. 1816), 2. Peter, d. unm.; 3. Robert, m. Miss Anne Colleton, and d. 1755, leaving issue sir James-Nassau, 6th bart.; 4. Elizabeth, wife of Captain Hawley, brother to general Hawley. John, the eldest son of sir John, dying before his father, the latter was succeeded by his grandson,

IV. Sir JOHN, m. 1st, Anne, da. of Francis Fulford, esq. (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament, March 1770), by whom he had 1 da., Louisa-Carolina, who m. admiral Richard Graves, and d. 25 Dec. 1822. He m. 2dly, ——, by whom he had one son,

V. Sir JOHN-SNELL, d. July 1801, leaving no issue, by which event the title devolved on his father's 1st cousin,

VI. Sir JAMES-NASSAU, clerk in the secretary of state's office for the home department, m. 2 Dec. 1778, Susanna, da. of William Nixon, of Lincoln, and had issue, 1. sir James Roupell, present bart.; 2. Thomas-William, in the army; 3. Lucy-Anne-Wilhelmina-Pitt; 4. Carolina-

Berkeley. Sir James d. 17 Jan. 1815, and was succeeded by his eldest son, BEAUMONT, of STOUGHTON-GRANGE, co. Leicester.

21 Feb. 1660.

Sir GEORGE-HOWLAND BEAUMONT, bart., D.C.L., F.S.A., succeeded his father sir George, in 1762: married Margaret, da. of John Willes, esq., eldest son of lord chief justice Willes, by whom he has no issue.

This family may vie with the proudest of our nobility in illustrious extraction, being descended, in a direct paternal line, from Lewis VIII., king of France, and maternally from Henry III., of England.

Charles, younger son of Lewis VIII., was called king of Jerusalem and Sicily. His 2d son, Lewis, m. Agnes, heiress of Beaumont, in France; and the sons of that m. took the name of Beaumont, and to their paternal arms, viz., France ancient, added those of their mother, viz., a lion rampant, or, as now borne. The eldest son of Lewis and Agnes enjoyed the French inheritance; Theobald, the 2d, was archbishop of Paris; Lewis, the 3d son, came to England, and was bishop of Durham. Henry, the 4th son, also seated himself in England, where he had the grants of many honours, and held various high employments in the state. He d. 1340.

His son John, lord Beaumont, m. Eleanor, 5th da. of Henry Plantagenet, earl of Lancaster, grandson to king Henry III. The eldest branch of his descendants ceased in the reign of Henry VII. The present bart. is descended from Thomas, 2d son of John, grandson of the above John, lord Beaumont.

Sir Thomas was created a baronet, 17 Sept. 1619, and afterwards created, 1622, viscount Beaumont, of Swords, co. Dublin. He was loyal to king Charles I., and was obliged to compound for his estate. The English Baronetcy and and Irish Peerage both failed in the person of Thomas, who d. in 1702. But from Thomas, 2d son of Nicholas, descended,

I. Sir THOMAS, the first bart. under the present existing patent. He m. Elizabeth, da. and co-heiress of sir Nicholas Trott, knt., by Mary, da. and heiress of sir George Perient, knt., and 3 sons and 3 das.: 1. sir Henry, 2d bart.; 2. Thomas, in holy orders (who m. Susannah, da. of William Oldys, D.D. and had 2 das., Elizabeth, wife of William Hayley, M.D., and Arabella; and 4 sons, of which one only left a da.): he d. 15 Jan. 1710, aged 71. William, of Great Dunmow, co. Essex, 3d son of sir Thomas, was ancestor to the present bart. The das. were Henrietta, Jane, and Mary. Sir Thomas was succeeded by his son,

II. Sir HENRY, m. Elizabeth, da. of George Farmer, esq., prothonotary of the common pleas; and after having served in parliament many years, d. in 1688. He had 8 sons and 7 das. (besides 6 sons that d. in their infancy): 1. sir Thomas; 2. sir George, successive barts.; 3. Henry, who d. unm.; 4. William-Villiers, d. 17 July 1697; 7. Charles, was blown up in the Downs, 19 Sept. 1700, in the Carlisle man-of-war; and 8. James, d. a bachelor. Of the 7 das., 1. Elizabeth, d. Feb. 1726-7: 2. Anne; 3. Diana, d. 1694; 4. Henrietta, wife of John Styleman, esq., d. 10 March 1724-5; 5. Catharine, wife of William Busby, d. 1 April 1726, leaving 1 son, William, and 1 da., wife of Anthony Keck, esq.; 6. Arabella; and 7. Christiana.

III. Sir THOMAS, the eldest son, d. in his 25th year, 1690.

IV. Sir GEORGE, succeeded his brother, and being also heir-male in blood to Thomas, viscount Beaumont, of Cole-Orton (an ancient seat and inheritance of the family), succeeded to that, and all other his estates, by the will of the said viscount. In the year 1712, he was made a commissioner of the privy seal, and 1714, one of the lords of the admiralty; and, dying unm. 9 April 1737, was succeeded by his next surviving brother,

V. Sir LEWIS, rector of Pycomb, in Sussex, and one of the prebendaries of Chichester. He m. Elizabeth, da. of Mr. Courtnay, and relict of the rev. Mr. Temple, by whom he had no issue; and dying 23 Dec. 1738, the title, and viscount Beaumont's estates at Cole-Orton, and in other counties, went to his cousin, sir George Beaumont, in the following manner:

William, 3d son of sir Thomas, the first bart. of this branch of the family, was seated at Dunmow, co. Essex, where he was buried in 1719; and having m. Jane, da. of John Watts, esq., by Jane, da. of sir Thomas Burton, bart., had 2 sons, William, and Henry (who had a son, Thomas); and 3 das., Henrietta, Jane, and Mary. BROUGHTON, of Broughton, co. Stafford.

10 March 1660.

Sir JOHN-DELVES BROUGHTON, bart., a lieut.-general in the army, succeeded his father, the rev. sir Thomas, 23 July 1813; married Mary, sister of sir John Egerton, of Oulton Park, co. Chester, bart., and by her has no issue.

By a MS. genealogy in the possession of the present bart., it appears that this family is descended from Delves, of Delves Hall in Staffordshire, at the time of the Conquest; one of which family was one of the equerries to lord Audley, who took the French king prisoner at the battle of Poictiers, for which he had part of the arms borne by the present family granted to him. By the Broughtons, they are descended from Richard de Vernon, 4th son of Hugo de Vernon, baron of Shipbroke at the Conquest; and by a pedigree in the possession of the countess of Shipbroke, it appears that all the other branches are at an end, or merged in other females; and that his name ought to be Vernon, and baron of Shipbroke, if such a title, granted by the earls of Chester, could now be taken.

There is an old castle, in the pleasure ground belonging to sir John, which is supposed to have been built in Edward the Third's reign; and which has, for the support of the staircase, 6 stone figures of the Black Prince, lord Audley, and his 4 esquires.

Thomas

Thomas Broughton founded and endowed a chapel at Broughton, m. Frances, da. of Walter, and sister of sir Harvey Bagot of Blithfield, co. Stafford, bart. This family, denominated from the town of Ashburnham, Bertram de Ashburnham, son of Anchitel, son of Piers, lord of Ashburnham, was sheriff of the counties of Surrey, Sussex, and Kent, and constable of Dover Castle, temp. Harold: which castle he defended against William the Conqueror; wherefore William, on his accession to the crown of England, caused his head to be struck off, together with the heads of his sons, Philip and Michael de Ashburnham.

GLYNNE, of Hawarden Castle, co. Flint.

20 May 1661.

Sir STEPHEN-RICHARD GLYNNE, bart., born Aug. 1807, succeeded his father sir Stephen-Richard, 5 March 1815.

This very ancient family is descended from Cilmin Droed-tu, of one of the fifteen tribes of North Wales; he lived in the time of Merfyn Frych, king of Man, being his brother's son, with whom he came from the north of Britain, when Merfyn married Esyllt, the daughter and heiress of Conan Tindæthwy, king of the Britons. His posterity were wise and discreet men, in all their ages; and many of them were learned in the laws, in the time of the kings and princes of Wales, and were judges: as Morgeneu geneu (or Judge) Yna ap Gwydr, and Cyfnerth, his son, whose law-book is yet extant, fairly written on parchment. Droed-tu was father of Lliwon ap Cilmin Droed-tu, whose descendant in the 21st generation was

John Glynne, esq. (eldest son of sir William Glynne, knt., by Jane, da. of John Griffith, of Caernarvon, esq., son of William Griffith, 4th son of sir William Griffith, knt.), born at Glyn-Cyphon, 1602, and became a distinguished political advocate; his school was that of the college at Westminster; his academic learning was instilled at Hart-hall, in Oxford, and his knowledge of the law was acquired at Lincoln's Inn, of which he became a bencher. His abilities were immediately discovered (the unfortunate earl of Strafford remarked, that Glynne and Maynard treated him like advocates, Palmer and Whitelock like gentlemen; and yet omitted nothing material that could be urged against him) by the popular party; by whose influence he was appointed high steward of Westminster, recorder of London, and twice elected for the former city, in the two parliaments of 1640. He was, next to Pym, the most active manager against the earl of Strafford; but in his case, as well as in the case of the 12 bishops, Mr. Glynne acted upon principles incompatible with the views of the popular party; which soon appeared by the persecution he underwent for making a noble stand against the ruin of the constitution, planned and subsequently effected by the army, and advising the disbanding of that army, in 1646. For these acts, 8 Sept. in the same year, he was first expelled the house of commons, then committed to the Tower of London, and next had a charge of high treason preferred against him, and finally was deprived of his recordership: but determining at length to submit to the rising powers, his imagined offences were forgiven; and in the following year, 1648, he was restored to his seat in the house of commons, appointed one of the commissioners for carrying on the treaty with the king in the Isle of Wight, and voted by the house to be a serjeant-at-law, in the new call it thought proper to make. He, as well as the cautious Whitelock, evaded all concern in the trial of the king, but afterwards temporised with the ruling powers. Cromwell soon appointed him of his council; in 1654, he was constituted chamberlain of Chester, and in the following year (on the refusal of the chief-justice, Rolles), was sent into the West, with a commission to try colonel Penruddock, and the other insurgents. Rolles lost his situation for his scruples, scruples, and in his room the serjeant was rewarded with the office of lord chief justice of the court of king's bench. Mr. Glynne was grateful to his patron; for being appointed of the committee to receive and consider the protector's scruples about being made king, he urged his acceptance of the crown with the utmost zeal. Notwithstanding, however, the usurper did not dare to assume the name, he mimicked the powers; and honoured his advocate with calling him up by writ to the house of peers, in 1657. The prudent lawyer maintained his ground till the year of the Restoration, when he wrote and published, in 8vo., "Monarchy asserted to be the best, the most ancient and loyal form of government." Whether this recommended him to the new government, or whether he had previously made his peace, is not certain; he was received by king Charles with distinguished marks of favour; who not only knighted him, 16 Nov. 1660, by the title of sir John Glynne, of Henley Park, co. Surrey, but bestowed upon him the honours of prime serjeant-at-law, and created his eldest son, William, a baronet. In the conventional parliament he was elected for co. Caernarvon, and appointed one of the committee for examining the acts passed during the late usurpation, which were inconsistent with the existing government, and ascertaining how many fines, recoveries, &c., made in the late courts of law, might be confirmed and rendered good. Sir John was consulted on the act for a general pardon, and in all other cases in which the assistance of an able lawyer was requisite. Walter-de-Windsor, so called from his being castellan or governor of the castle of Windsor; he had 2 sons, William, from whom the barons Windsor are descended; and Gerald, from whom are the Carews and Fitz-Geralds.

Gerald, the younger son, was castellan or governor of the castle of Pembroke, in Wales; and in great favour with king Henry I. He m. Nesta, da. of Rees, prince of South Wales; whose dowry was the castle of Carew. By this lady he

Richard Carew, son of Thomas Carew and Elizabeth Edgcombe,

Edgcombe, says Fuller, in his History of the Worthies of England, " was b. at Anthony, in Cornwall, of right worshipful parentage, who honoured his extraction with his learning. He was bred a gentleman-commoner in Oxford, where, being but 14 years old, and yet 3 years standing, he was called out to dispute extempore, before the earls of Warwick and Leicester, with the matchless sir Philip Sydney.

Sir ROGER MARTIN, bart., born 22 Feb. 1778, succeeded his father sir Mordaunt, October, 1815; senior merchant and second judge of the court of appeal at Moorshedabad, on the Bengal Establishment.

This ancient and knightly family (as Mr. Harvey, in his Visitation of Suffolk, styles it), is of very great antiquity. It claimed an alliance, in the time of the Heptarchy, with the kingly race, by the marriage of John de la Piddle. Its ancient seat was Admiston Hall, co. Dorset, whose last possessor was Nicholas Martin, who left only 2 das., his heiresses. Richard Martin, a younger brother of this family, removed to Long-Melford, temp. Richard II.

Richard Martin made an addition to the estate by the purchase of several lands temp. king Edward IV., and d. 1578, John. Roger, the eldest son, was eminently remarkable for his charity, and of him we find a highly interesting anecdote. When he declined with old age, and was not able to go far from home, he had a whistle to his cane, by which he called the poor to him to receive his charity. In the 14th of Henry VIII., he was appointed one of the commissioners for levying the subsidy granted to that monarch, having previously been educated to the law, and became a bencher of Lincoln's Inn. In the reign of queen Mary, on being offered the secretaryship of state, he nobly replied, "that for himself he was highly satisfied with the sufficiency God had bestowed on him, and with a private life; and as for his son, he would inherit a competency sufficient, if he proved an honest man, and if he became otherwise, far too much." Richard, his son, purchased a noble lordship of sir William Cordell in 1556; he was succeeded by Roger Martin, who m. Ursula, da. of sir Thomas Jermin, of Rushbrook, co. I. Sir Roger, 1st bart., m. 1663, Tamworth, da. of Edward Horner, esq. (by Elizabeth, da. of sir George Reresby, bart., and relict of sir Francis Fulgiums, who by a 3d marriage became viscountess Monson, and by a 4th became the wife of sir Adam Felton), by whom he had: 1. PARKER, of Melford-Hall, co. Suffolk.

1 July 1681.

Sir WILLIAM PARKER, bart., born in 1770, succeeded his father sir Harry, 15 Jan. 1812.

Enough has been done by some individuals of this family to transmit the name with distinguished honour to the latest posterity; it therefore appears almost a supererogatory task to search into former times for other incidents, when those which have taken place in modern periods suffice to exhibit its illustrious character, and would impart celebrity to any race, however illustrious. To prove, however, the antiquity of this family, we must have recourse to its genealogical particulars; and from these we learn, that the earliest settlement of the Parkers was at North Molton, co. Devon, where they had a seat, about the end of the 14th century, as appears from a visitation of that county in 1620. The Parkers are said to have been highly distinguished for their attachment to the royal cause, during the period of kings Charles I. and II., and suffered greatly, like other zealous persons in the same cause, for their loyalty: but they still maintained that rank in society which they had held for several centuries, not only from their individual respectability, but from their intermarriages with the families of Mayhew, Boringdon, Courtenay, Hall, of Inyers Hall, and Seymour, of Berry-Pomeroy, co. Devon. Previous, however, to the reigns before alluded to, we find Edmund Parker, of North Molton, esq., who flourished in the reign of queen Elizabeth, m. Dorothy, da. of sir Clement Smith, of Little Baddow, co. Essex, knt., chief baron of the exchequer, and had issue 1 son, John, who d. during his father's lifetime, 1610, leaving issue, by his wife, Frances, da.

da. of Jeronemy Mayhew, of Boringdon, co. Devon, esq., Anne; and 1. Edmund, heir to his grandfather; 2. Thomas, knighted by king James I.; and 3. John, aged 21 years, 1620, agreeably to the visitation book already referred to. Edmund, the eldest son, succeeded his grandfather, and was aged 27 years in 1620, m. Amy, da. of sir Edward Seymour, of Berry-Pomeroy, co. Devon, knt. (ancestor of the dukes of Somerset), by whom he had, 1. Edward, d. unm.: 2. Edmund, who succeeded his father, and ancestor to the earls of Morley (vide Debrett's Peerage of the United Kingdom); 3. John; 4. William; 5. Henry; 6. Charles; 7. Richard; and 8. James; and 5 das. William, 4th son, m. and left a son, Thomas Parker, of Hoberton, co. Devon, esq., who m. and left issue, among other sons, William; and

I. Sir HUGH, the 1st bart. was an alderman of London; m. Rachael, da. of —— Brown, of Louth, co. Lincoln, by whom he had no issue; and dying, 5 March 1696-7, aged 89, was succeeded in the title, according to a special limitation in the patent, by his nephew, sir Henry, son of his brother, Henry (who d. 1670), by Margaret, da. of John White, of London.

II. Sir HENRY, m. Margaret, da. of Dr. Alexander Hyde, bishop of Salisbury, and son of sir Lawrence Hyde, of Dyneton, co. Wilts, knt., and by her (who d. 6 Jan. 1728-9) he had 3 sons and 3 das.: 1. Hugh; 2. Harry, m. a da. of Dr. Harrison, master of St. Cross, at Winchester, by whom he had no issue; 3. Hyde, who was rector of Tredington, co. Worcester, and m. a da. of Mr. Reeves, and d. 24 May 1726, leaving 4 children, Henry and Hyde, 4th and 5th barts., Anne and Beata. Of the das., 1. Frances, was wife of sir John Pakington, bart.; 2. Margaret, of John Banks, esq.; and 3. Beata, of sir Thomas-Cookes Winford, bart. Sir Henry, d. 25 Oct. 1713.

Hugh, eldest son of sir Henry, d. in his father's lifetime, 2 Feb. 1712. He m. Anne, da. of John Smith, esq., commissioner of the excise (surviving him, she afterwards m. Michael, 10th earl of Clanricarde, in the peerage of Ireland), by this lady he had 4 sons and 3 das.: 1. sir Henry-John, 3d bart.; 2. Hugh; 3. John-Smith, who both d. without issue; and 4. Hyde. Of the das., 1. Margaret, was wife of Thomas Nugent, esq., created count de Valdesoto, in Spain, who was major-general in the Spanish service, and was killed when deputy-governor of Gibraltar; by whom he had 1 son, Edward H. Nugent, count de Valdesoto; 2. Anne, wife wife of Austin-Park Goddard, esq., knight of the military order of St. Stephen of Tuscany; they had 1 da., Sophia, wife of William-Mervyn Dillon, esq., 3d son of Francis Dillon, of Proudeston, co. Meath, esq., by whom he had John-Joseph Dillon, of Lincoln's Inn, esq., and Sophia. The 3d da. of Hugh Parker, esq. was Sophia, wife of Edward Cole, of Euston, co. Oxford, esq.

IV. The rev. sir HENRY, D.D., rector of Rotherfield Greys, co. Oxford, eldest son of Hyde, rector of Treddington, who d. 1726. Sir Henry dying unm. in 1781, was succeeded by his brother,

V. Sir HYDE, vice-admiral of the blue, who upon many occasions distinguished himself in the service of his country, particularly on 5 March 1780, when he commanded at St. Lucia, and in the memorable action with the Dutch on the Dogger Bank, 5 Aug. 1781. The impression made on the public mind from this hard-fought battle, was such as to induce the king, attended by the prince of Wales, to pay the admiral a visit at the Nore. In the following year the vice-admiral was appointed commander-in-chief of his Majesty's fleet in the East Indies: he left England in the Cato, in Sept., and having wooded and watered at Rio Janeiro, sailed from thence on the 12th of Dec., from which period no information whatever was received of him, so that it is presumed he perished by fire. In 1734 he m. Sarah, da. of Hugh Smithson, esq., by whom he left 2 sons, Harry, 6th bart., and Hyde, b. in 1739, who was knighted for his gallant services in the American war, and advanced to the rank of admiral of the white; he m. 1st, Anne, da. of John-Palmer Boteler, esq., of Henley, by whom he has 3 sons, Hyde, who m. 16 July 1821, Caroline, youngest da.

WILLIAMS-WYNN, of Wynnstay, co. Denbigh.

6 July 1688.

Sir WATKIN WILLIAMS-WYNN, bart., born 26 Oct. 1772; succeeded his father sir Watkin, 29 July 1789. Lord lieutenant and custos rotulorum co. Denbigh and Merioneth, and knight of the shire for the former county in the present and last 4 parliaments; married, 5 Feb. 1817, Harriet Clive, eldest da. of Edward, earl of Powis, and has issue a da., b. 16 Aug. 1818, and a son, b. 22 May 1820.

William Williams, of Chwaine Issa, in Anglesea, esq., was the 14th in lineal descent from Cadrod Hardd, or the Handsome, a British chieftain, who resided at Tremadog, in the parish of Llanfaithley in the same county, and was lord of Tallybolion, about the year 1100. I. Sir WILLIAM, knt., the first bart., was a barrister, and recorder of Chester, which city he represented in 3 parliaments, in the 2 latter of which he was chosen speaker. In 36 Car. II., he was tried for a libel, in causing to be printed the information of Thomas Dangerfield, gent.: and although he pleaded the law and custom of parliament in his favour, the court fined him ten thousand pounds for licensing the said information to be printed, 8,000*l.* of which sum he was compelled to pay. Roger North attributes the severity of this fine to the resentment of Jefferies, who had been reprimanded on his knees at the bar of the house of commons by Mr. Williams, when speaker. After the Revolution, this judgment was declared by the house of commons to be illegal, and against the freedom of parliament. He was one of the most eminent lawyers of his time, and appears by the debates and state trials to have been the active and zealous advocate of the popular party in in the reign of Charles II., but was afterwards made, by king James the Second, solicitor-general, and knighted in 1687, and was in 1688 created a bart. Soon after the Revolution he was appointed one of the king's counsel. The last public act of his life was, the introduction of the act for preventing charge and expense in the election of members, commonly called the Treating Act, which still continues one of the principal safeguards of the independence and purity of parliament: he m. Margaret, da. and coheiress of Watkyn Kyffin, esq., and d. 11 July 1700, leaving 2 sons and 1 da.: 1. William, 2d bart.; 2. Among other public measures, the country was indebted to him for the act for the more effectual preventing of bribery and corruption in the election of members to serve in parliament.

Sir Watkin m. Anne, da. and co-heiress of Edw. Vaughan, esq., by whom he had several children, who all d. young. 4 Oct. 1705.

Sir RICHARD FLEMING, bart., succeeded his brother sir Daniel, 1821.

This family derives its descent from sir Michael le Fleming, knt., who, being related to Baldwin V., earl of Flanders, was sent to assist William the Conqueror, his son-in-law, who sent him some years after, with some of his countrymen, into Cumberland, to oppose the Scots, for which services the Conqueror gave him the castle of Gleaston, and other estates in Lancashire and Cumberland; and also the castle of Caernarvon. The present family of Rydal proceeds from Richard, 2d son of sir Michael, who was settled in Cumberland. The elder branch, who enjoyed the Lancashire estates, estates, continued owners thereof, in a regular succession, until they came to Henry Grey, marquess of Dorset, and afterwards duke of Suffolk, father of the lady Jane Grey.

I. Sir WILLIAM, 1705, was created a bart, with remainder to the issue male of sir Daniel Fleming, his father: m. Dorothy, da. of Thomas Rowlandson, by whom he had 3 das.: 1. Dorothy, of George-Edward Stanley, esq. This sir William, from his veneration for antiquity, was desirous to restore the primitive orthography of the family name, by inserting the particle le; and in this instance effectually performed it, by incorporating the particle with his son's Christian name at his baptism, who thereby bears the same name with the founder of the family. HILL, of Hawkestone, co. Salop.

20 Jan. 1726-7.

Sir ROWLAND HILL, bart. M.P. co. Salop, succeeded his grandfather sir John, in May 1824.

This ancient family, whose name was originally written Hull, and De la Hull, have been long resident in Shropshire, and can be traced there, before the time of Edward I.; and Hugh de Hull, having m. the elder da. and co-heir of Hugh de Wlonheslowe, was seated at Hull and Wlonheslowe, in the reign of Edw. II. From Hugh proceeded Geoffry, who m. the da. of Warren, lord of Ightfield, descended from Hamlyn Plantagenet, who became earl of Warren and Surrey, in right of his wife: Humphrey, his son and heir, was called Hill, and m. the daughter and co-heir of John Birdde, by the heir of sir David de Malpas, descended from Hugh Kevelioc, and the other ancient earls of Chester: from this marriage came several branches of the family, seated at Court of Hill, Hawkestone, and several other places, at which they no longer reside; or that have passed away to other families. From one of the younger sons descended sir Rowland Hill, knt. twice lord mayor of London, temp. Henry VIII. or Edw. VI. He was the founder of many great public charities, of which we will only name here the churches of Stoke and Hodnett; and the schools at Drayton, near Hawkestone; and the large stone bridges over the Severn and Tern, near Attingham. He gave his immense wealth chiefly among his nieces, and sisters' children, and particularly to his niece, Alice, who m. his friend and partner, sir Thomas Leigh, who was ancestor to the lords Dunmore, and earls of Chichester, and to the lords Leigh, of Stone Leigh, and Alice, duchess of Dudley. His other nieces m. sir Hugh Cholmondeley (ancestor to the present earl), sir Richard Levison, Levison, knt., and Reginald Corbet, chief justice of the queen's bench, &c. From the eldest son, Humphrey, descended the Hills of Court of Hill; and from the 2d son, through marriages with the Bostocks, Bulkeleys, and other ancient families, descended the Hills of Hawkestone, Shenstone, Tern, and Attingham. From another son, by marriages with the Forresters and Grosvenors, came the great branch of Soulton, now extinct. This family suffered considerably for their loyalty during the civil wars; when Rowland Hill, immediate ancestor of the present sir Rowland Hill and lord Berwick, came to relieve his father, who was detained by the rebels in Hawkestone-Castle; he was remarkable for his great piety, charity, and wisdom, and was father of Rowland and Richard Hill, who succeeded to the family estates at Hawkestone, &c. on the death of his elder brother, who d. unm. The right hon. Richard Hill, great-uncle to the first lord, was deputed on several foreign embassies, in the reigns of king William and queen Anne, and was appointed one of the lords commissioners of the treasury; and afterwards one of the council to his highness George prince of Denmark, as lord high admiral of England. He was likewise a privy counsellor, and being a statesman of the greatest abilities and integrity, and having refused the highest honours for himself, in different reigns, being personally known to George I., his majesty conferred the dignity of a baronet upon his nephew, sir Rowland, afterwards M.P. for Lichfield (father of sir Richard Hill, bart., of Hawkestone, so many years M.P. for co. Salop: and John Hill, M.P. for Shrewsbury, &c). Such was the estimation in which this person was held, that in default of issue from sir Rowland, the above dignity was given in remainder to his other nephews, as follows: To Samuel Hill, of Shenstone; to Thomas Hill, of Terne, father of the first lord Berwick, and Rowland Hill, brother to Thomas, who d. unm. Samuel Hill, of Shenstone Park, near Lichfield, for which he was likewise M.P., m. lady Elizabeth, da. of Philip, earl of Chesterfield, by Elizabeth, daughter of George, marquess of Halifax, but left no issue: and the Shenstone estate devolved, by virtue of entail, upon the first lord Berwick; and his other large property went to his sister and heiress, who m. John Egerton, esq., of Tatton-Park, Cheshire. (For further particulars of Hill, baron Berwick, vide Debrett's Peerage of the United Kingdom.)

FETHERSTONHAUGH, of FETHERSTONHAUGH, co. Northumberland.

3 Jan. 1747.

Sir HENRY FETHERSTONHAUGH, bart., succeeded his father sir Matthew, 24 May 1774.

William de Monte, so called from his house at Stanhope, situated on Craig-Hill, lived temp. king Stephen, and, 1373, this family assumed the surname of Fetherstonhaugh.

Of the Stanhope family, who were distinguished by the addition of Halge, were sir Heneage and sir Fetherston, barts., first so created 1660.

So also was colonel Fetherstonhalge, killed at the battle of Blenheim, the last possessor of the Stanhope estate; which was, after his decease, sold to the earl of Carlisle, and put a period to the name there; he had twice represented co. Durham.

Albany Fetherstonhaugh, the descendant of the elder branch, had a 2d son, Henry, who, at the beginning of the reign of James I., was appointed receiver of all the king's revenues in Cumberland and Westmoreland, and had issue, a son, Timothy; which Timothy, in the succeeding reign, espoused the cause of the royal party, raised a troop of horse at his own expense, was knighted under the king's banner, and fought bravely and successfully till the fatal battle of Worcester, 3 Sept. 1651, when he was taken prisoner, and beheaded at Bolton, co. Lancaster (together with James, 7th earl of Derby). This event hurt the estate of this particular branch of the family; but not irretrievably, for the descendants of this gentleman are still very respectable, both in fortune and character. The above-named Albany Fetherstonhaugh (father of Henry, and grandfather of Timothy) had large manors and possessions, but they became in process of time reduced to the single castle of Fetherstonhaugh, in Northumberland, with its domains, which is now inherited by sir Matthew Fetherstonhaugh, from his late father, who was lineally descended from this branch of the family.

The great-grandfather of the present bart. possessing an estate at Aston-Moor, co. Northumberland, which was a part of the estate belonging to Fetherstonhaugh, and given to his ancestors, as a younger brother's portion: he left issue, a son, who m. the da. of Matthew Whitfield, of Whitfield, co. BROMLEY, BROMLEY, of NOTTINGHAM and of EAST-STOKE, co. Nottingham.

31 Oct. 1757.

Sir ROBERT-HOWE BROMLEY, bart., captain R.N., born 28 Nov. 1778; succeeded his father sir George, 17 Aug. 1808: married, 8 June 1812, ——, youngest da. of Daniel Wilson, of Dalham Tower, co. Westmoreland, esq., and has issue, a da. b. 31 June 1813, and another da., b. 22 Sept. 1814, and a son and heir, b. Dec. 1815.

The family of Pauncevolt, or Pauncefote, is very ancient and honourable. Bernard Pauncevolt is mentioned in Domesday Book, as the proprietor of estates co. Wilts and Hants; and Richard Pauncefote, his descendant, obtained a grant from king Henry III. of the manor of Hasfield, co. Gloucester, which was regularly transmitted to his posterity till the beginning of the 17th century, when it was sold by Richard, the eleventh in descent from the first Richard above named. Sir Grimbald Pauncefote, knt., was a person of considerable distinction in the wars of the barons with their sovereigns. In Robert of Gloucester's account of the taking of Gloucester Castle, from sir Piers Maci, this Grimbauld is frequently mentioned, and is said to have been knighted by sir Edward Bohun, and to have received also from that warrior the lioncels, a part of his armorial bearings. Attaching himself afterwards to the party of the earl of Leicester, he was taken at Northampton, 1264, with 400 others, in arms against the king; he was 4 years afterwards one of the sureties on behalf of the abbot of Highman, prior of Wigmore, and Isabella, relict of John Fitzalan, for debts due to the crown; this is presumed to have been the same sir Grimbald who m. Sibilla, da. and heiress of the lord of the manor of Crickhowel, co. Brecknock, by which connexion that estate was conveyed into, and long afterwards possessed by the family of Pauncefote. His eldest son, sir Grimbald Pauncefote, proved his privileges in the manor of Hasfield, upon a writ of quo warranto issued 1286, and in 1293 an inquisition ad quod damnum, was taken at Bentley, upon the motion of the said Grimbald, to be allowed to alienate to the value of 200 marks within the forest of Feckenham; it appears, by by this inquisition, that Sibilla Pauncefote was seised in dower of a 3d part of the wood belonging to sir Grimbald, in Bentley. His son, sir Emerius Pauncefote, d. 1330, who was succeeded by his son, sir Grimbald, m. Ellen, da. of sir Alan de Cherleton, knt., in 1357. He was succeeded by his brother, sir Hugh, of Carns, but then of Hasfield and Crickhowel, knt.; he was aged 40, at the death of his brother, and d. 1378, leaving issue by Catharine, his wife, one son, John; this John in an inquisition taken at Wyche, co. Worcester, is thus described, "Johannes Pauncefote, filius Hugonis defuncti filii Emerici filii Grimbaldi Pauncefote." Petronella, the relict of sir Grimbald Pauncefote (eldest brother of sir Hugh) d. 4 May 1385; Catharine, relict of sir Hugh, d. 20 May 1381. The present baronet represents a collateral branch of this family. Thomas Smith, of Nottingham, esq., was in the 17th century possessed of the manor of Keyworth, and other estates in that county. He had 2 sons, Thomas, and Abel, m. Jane, da. of George Beaumont, esq., by whom he had 2 sons, George, of whom hereafter, and Abel, who was father of the present lord Carrington.

I. Sir GEORGE was created a baronet, 31 Oct. 1757, m. 1st, Mary, only da. and heiress of major William Howe (eldest son of Emanuel-Scroope Howe, esq., by Ruperta, his wife, a natural da. of prince Rupert), by Elizabeth, 3d daughter and co-heiress of the abovementioned William Pauncefote, esq. By this lady sir George had 2 sons, and 2 das.: Howe, d. young; George; Mary and Jane, d. young. Lady Smith d. in 1761, and sir George m. 2dly, in 1768, Catharine, eldest da. of the rev. William Vyse, archdeacon of Lichfield, by whom he had no issue, and deceasing, was succeeded by his son,

II. Sir GEORGE, b. 18 Aug. 1753, m. 8 Jan. 1778, Esther, eldest da. of Asheton, present viscount Curzon, and had issue, sir Robert-Howe, present bart. Sir George assumed the name of Bromley, 7 Feb. 1778, by royal license. Sir George d. 17 Aug. 1808, and was succeeded by his only son,

The present patent is the second conferred on this family, which is of considerable antiquity, co. Kent: in several parts of which they had possessions, which still bear their names. In Snodland, near Rochester, and in Acris, there are estates still called Lads, which had owners of that name temp. Edward I., and in Eleham, where they were resident at least as early as Edward IV., as appears by the register of their wills, which begins at that era. CUNLIFFE, of Liverpool, co. Lancaster.

26 March 1759.

Sir FOSTER CUNLIFFE, bart., succeeded his father sir Robert; m. in 1781, Harriet, daughter of sir David Kinloch, of Gilmertown, N.B., bart., by whom he has, 1. Foster, b. Aug. 1782, m. April 1809, Elizabeth-Emma, only da. of John, lord Crewe; 2. Robert-Henry, b. April 1785, m. Louisa, relict of —— Forest, esq.; 3. Ellis-Watkin, m. 13 June, 1822, Caroline, youngest da. of the late John Kingston, esq.; 4. Francis-Kinloch, d. young; 5. Mary, m. Charles-Watkin-Williams Wynn, esq., M.P., brother to sir Watkin-Williams Wynn, bart.; 9. Harriet, m. sir Richard Brooke, of Norton, co. Chester, bart.

This family is of very great antiquity, and it is probable they were among the first Saxons who settled themselves in the north of England. A house and lands, bearing the name of Cunlive or Cunliffe, were granted them, in these early times, at Billington, near Whalley, co. Lancaster. This became afterwards the surname of the family; for in the year 1282, an inquisition was issued concerning the extent of the manor of Manchester, in which a jury of twelve principal persons were sworn, among whom was Adam de Cunlive. The family continued in the possession of the lands and hall of Cunliffe, till the civil wars between the houses of York and Lancaster; but in the reign of Henry VII. they had lost their possessions there, and were seated either at Wicollar, or at Hastings, in the same county. They are still still possessed of Wicollar, but the civil wars between Charles I. and his parliament again lessened their possessions.

Nicholas Cunliffe, of Hollings, and Robert, his brother, were in the civil wars, engaged on the side of parliament, to execute an important trust in Lancashire.

Foster Cunliffe, esq., M.P. for Liverpool, left issue, 2 sons, sir Ellis and sir Robert, successive barts.

GLYNN, of LONDON, and of EWELL, co. Surrey.

25 Sept. 1759.

Sir LEWEN-POWELL GLYNN, bart., born Aug. 1801, succeeded the rev. sir George, 4 Sept. 1814.

This ancient family derived their descent from Cilmin, nephew to Marfyn Frych, prince of Wales (who m. Istylht, da. and heiress of Conan Findacthevy, king of the Britons, who was killed in 841), who had his residence at Glynnliven, near near Dinasin, co. Caernarvon, and who flourished in 843. Cilmin was chief of the 4th Welsh tribe, and was commonly designated by the name of Troed-Du, that is, Cilmin with a black foot, in allusion to which, some of his descendants, for a considerable time, bore a man's leg, coupé a la cuisse, sable. A ridiculous legend informs us, that Cilmin's leg became so discoloured by escaping from a demon, whose books he had assisted a magician to steal: in leaping over a brook, which was to be the limit of the pursuit, Cilmin's left leg plunged into the water, and assumed a sable dye. This story is certainly absurd, but not more so than an Eastern tale. Glynnlivon, Cilmin's place of residence, in progress of time came into possession of an ancestor of sir Watkin-Williams-Wynn, bart. In consequence of an intermarriage, it appears, that the Glynns are also descended from Elkelystan Glodrydd, chief of the 4th royal tribe of Wales. From this Cilmin descended a numerous posterity, many individuals of whom were eminently distinguished at the various periods of time in which they lived, particularly Morganlfrad ap Gwrydr, and Cyfnerth, his son, whose law book is yet extant, fairly written upon parchment; Morgenen Ynad ap Madoc, Morgan Ynad ap Meurice, and Madoc Goch Ynad, all of whom were celebrated Welch judges, and well versed in the laws and institutions of their several princes.

William Glyn, of Glyn Llyfon, who was named in a commission of queen Elizabeth, in 1557, to several gentlemen of North Wales, to admit and regulate the order of bards and musicians. His descendant in the 6th generation was,

Robert Glyn, of Ewell, co. Surrey, esq., b. 1673, m. Anne Maynard, niece of sir William Lewin, lord mayor of London, and had issue, 1. William, d. young; 2. sir Richard, 1st bart., and d. 1746.

Hants; and 3. Edward, b. in 1757, and d. young. Sir Richard d. 31 Dec. 1772, and was succeeded by his son, II. Sir GEORGE, in holy orders, rector of Ewell, co. Surrey, b. 1739, m. 1st, Jane, da. of the rev. Watkin Lewes, of Tredeved, co. Pembroke, and had issue, 1. 21 Aug. 1764.

Sir JENISON-WILLIAM GORDON, bart., succeeded his father, sir Samuel, in April 1780, patent-customer of the port of Newcastle-upon-Tyne; married, Oct. 1781, Harriet-Frances-Charlotte Finch, 2d daughter of George-Finch Hatton, esq., son of the hon. Edward-Finch Hatton, youngest son of Daniel, 6th earl of Winchilsea, by whom (who d. June 1821) he had no issue.

The Gordons, of Newark-upon-Trent, are descended from William Gordon, of Cricklaw, youngest son of John, first lord of Lochenvar, whose grandson was created lord Kenmure by Charles I. Thomas Gordon, a cadet of that family, among many other young men of the first families in the west of Scotland, accompanied sir Hugh Montgomery, of the family of Eglintoun, who being secretary for Scotland, and attending king James I. into England, was employed by that prince to levy a force in the west of Scotland, sufficient to attack the rebel Connor O'Neil, earl of Tyrone, whom they besieged and took prisoner in Carrickfergus, and brought him over through Scotland into England.

From this Thomas, the first adventurer who settled in Ireland, descended Notts, of which co. he was sheriff, 1760, was knighted, and created a baronet as above; and 3 daughters: Catharine d. unm. in 1800; and Elizabeth, and Eleanor. He d. in April 1780, and was succeeded by his only son, PIGOT, of Patshull, co. Stafford.

2 3 Nov. 1764.

Sir GEORGE PIGOT, bart. born 29 Oct. 1765; succeeded his father, sir Robert, 1 Aug. 1796; a lieutenant-general in the army, married, 18 July 1796, Mary-Anne, daughter of the hon. John Monckton, of Fineshade, co. Northampton, son of John, 1st viscount Galway, and has issue: 1. Mary-Ann; 2. Sophia; 3. Georgiana; 4. George, d. March 1810; 5. Robert; 6. John; 7. Eleanor; 8. Olivia; 9. Fanny-Henrietta; 10. Henry-Orlando; and 11. Laura.

Hugh Pigot of Peplow, co. Salop, esq. the direct founder of this family, m. Elizabeth, daughter of —— Dicken, esq. who was father of Richard Pigot, who by Frances, daughter of Peter Goode, esq. had issue: 1. George, d. young; 2. sir George, 1st bart.; 3. sir Robert, 2d bart.; 4. Hugh, vice-admiral, R.N. m. 1st, Elizabeth, daughter of Peter le Neve, esq. and had issue: Isabella; and 2dly, Frances, daughter of sir Richard Wrottesley, bart. and had issue, Hugh, post-captain, R.N.; Frances, and Caroline, m. lord Henry Fitzroy, 3d son of Augustus-Henry, 3d duke of Grafton, K.G.; 5. Frances, d. young; 6. Margaret, m. April 1755, Thomas Fisher, esq. and had issue, Margaret, Anne, and Elizabeth. Richard Pigot, esq. d. 31 Dec. 1729.

I. Sir GEORGE PIGOT was governor of Fort St. George, Madras, in the East Indies; was created a baronet, as above, with remainder to his brothers, sir Robert, 2d bart., and Hugh, and their heirs male: he was afterwards created a peer of Ireland, in 1765, by the title of baron Pigot of Patshul, and deceased at Madras, in 1783, without issue male, when the barony became extinct; but was succeeded in the baronetage, agreeable to the patent of limitation, by his brother.

The celebrated diamond, which was esteemed by skilful lapidists, but little inferior in weight and equal in water and brilliancy to any known diamond in Europe, and worth a sum a sum little short of 30,000*l.*, lord Pigot bequeathed to his brothers sir Robert, and admiral Pigot, and his sister Margaret Fisher. On the decease of the two former it solely vested in sir George Pigot, present bart., Frances, relict of admiral Hugh Pigot, and Margaret Fisher; by whom it was disposed of under an act of parliament, in 1800, by way of lottery, for 23,998*l.* 16*s.* in eleven thousand four hundred and twenty-eight tickets at two guineas each. His lordship was succeeded by his brother,

II. Sir ROBERT, a brigadier-general in the army in America, who distinguished himself so highly at the fatal battle of Bunker's-hill, that his majesty was pleased to give him the 38th regiment of foot. The battle of Bunker's-hill is presumed, for its continuance, to have been one of the severest actions ever known, in which the British army was not only engaged with the enemy in front, and in an advantageous position, but with those behind them, on houses, walls, &c. Sir Robert commanded the left wing on this occasion; and to his activity, bravery, and firmness, much of the success of that day was owing. As a proof of the dangerous service in which the British troops were engaged, it is merely necessary to mention, that, of 2000 men, the total amount of our original force, 226 were killed, and 828 were wounded; among whom were 19 officers in the former, and 70 officers in the latter. He m. 18 Feb. 1765, Anne, daughter of Allen Johnson, of Kilternan, co. Dublin, esq. father of the present sir John-Allen Johnson, bart. and by her (who d. in July 1772) had Anne, b. 22 Nov. 1771, and sir George, the present bart.; 2. Hugh, R.N.; 3. Robert, lieutenant-colonel in the army. Sir Robert d. Aug. 1796, and was succeeded by his son,

ST. JOHN (now MILDMAY), of MOULSHAM-HALL, co. Essex.

9 Sept. 1772.

Sir HENRY-CAREW-SAINT-JOHN MILDMAY, bart., succeeded his father, sir Henry-Paulet-St.-John, 11 Nov. 1808; married, 7 Aug. 1809, Charlotte, eldest daughter of the hon. Bartholomew Bouverie; and by her (who d. 5 Aug. 1810) had issue, Henry-Bouverie, b. 31 July 1810.

The family of Mildmay is so ancient as to have been of great consequence in the reign of king Stephen; and it appears that one of them attended Richard I. to the Holy Land; where, as an acknowledgement of his services, he received from that monarch an achievement and motto, which the family bear to this day. Hugo Mildme, the first ancestor of whom we read, lived about the year 1147.

Thomas Mildmay, of Moulsham, m. Avice, da. of William Gernon, esq., by whom she had 8 sons and 7 das. Sir Thomas Mildmay, in the reign of queen Elizabeth, m. Frances, only da. of Henry Ratcliffe, earl of Sussex, through whom afterwards the title and estate of the Fitz-Walters came into the Mildmay family. Sir Thomas d. 21 July 1608, and was succeeded by his eldest son, sir Thomas Mildmay, knt., who was afterwards created a bart. by king James I. in 1611. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, da. of sir John Puckering, keeper of the great seal; 2dly, Anne, da. of John Savill, esq., but dying without issue in 1620, the title became extinct, and the estates went to his brother. In the reign of James I. the family of Mildmay spread almost over the whole county of Essex, for we find no less than 9 considerable families of that name who had established themselves there, and were then possessed of considerable estates; namely,

Sir Thomas Mildmay, of Moulstan, bart.: sir Henry Mildmay, of Woodham Walter, knt.; sir Humphrey Mildmay, of Danbury, knt.; sir Henry Mildmay, of Wanstead, knt.; sir Thomas Mildmay, of Springfield, Barnes, knt.; sir Henry Mildmay, of Graces, knt.; Walter Mildmay, of Great Baddow, knt.; Carew-Hervey Mildmay, of Marks, esq.; sir Robert Mildmay, of Tarling, knt.

Benjamin, the great-grandson of sir Henry, was summoned to parliament 10 Feb. 1669, by the title of baron Fitz-Walter. He m. Catharine, da. of John, lord Fairfax, by whom he had Charles and Benjamin. Charles, the elder son, succeeded his father in the barony, and m. Elizabeth, da. of Charles Bertie, youngest son of Montague, earl of Lindsey, and dying 1728, without issue, was succeeded in the barony by his brother Benjamin, who was, 1730, created earl Fitz-Walter, and viscount Harwich, and m. Frederica, widow of Robert Darcy, earl of Holderness, and one of the das. and co-heiresses of the duke of Schomberg; and dying 29 Feb. 1756, without issue, this branch of the family became extinct in the male line.

We now retun to William, 2d son of sir Thomas, who lived temp. Edward VI. From him was descended sir William, who was created a bart. by his late majesty; and to him Benjamin, earl Fitz-Walter, devised his property: in consequence of which he became seated at Moulsham Hall. Sir William m. Anne, da. of Humphrey Mildmay, esq.; but this 2d title of bart. became extinct. He dying without issue in 1772, left his estates to his widow, who, at her her decease in 1795, devised them to the present possessor. From the last-mentioned sir Thomas descended also Carew-Hervey, who attained the age of 96, d. 1780, and was the last surviving issue of the Mildmays. From another of the very numerous branches of this family descended John and Henry: the former of whom lost his life at the battle of Newbury, fighting for the king: the latter, though he had been a great favourite of, and received signal proofs of attachment from, Charles I. and his father, nevertheless took an active part on the side of the parliament, and sat as one of the judges on the king's trial, but did not sign the warrant for the execution. He appears to have surrendered himself, with many others, on the proclamation, in 1660, under the promise of life, though subject to any subordinate punishment that might be inflicted. He was condemned, in 1661, to be confined for life, but was afterwards released and d. at Antwerp. All the vast property he had accumulated was confiscated, excepting his estates at Shawford, co. Hants, and at Newington, co. Middlesex. Letitia, heiress in the male line of this branch, intermarried with Humphrey, younger son of Carew. Their issue were, Carew and Anne, wife of sir William Mildmay, of Moulsham, bart. Carew resided at Shawford, and m. Jane, da. of William Pescod, recorder of Winchester, and d. in 1768, leaving 3 das.: Jane. m. sir Henry St. John, 3d bart.; Anne, to John Clerk, of Worthing, in Hants, esq., d. May 1820; and Letitia, to George-William Rickets, esq. of Lainstone, in the same county. Since his marriage, sir Henry has succeeded (in right of his wife), on the decease of the widow of sir William, in 1735, to the principal family estate at Moulsham; and the representation of 4 branches of the family, after a lapse of 260 years, has at length again centred in the same persons.

ST. JOHN.

This family is paternally descended from the Ports, lords of Basing in Hampshire, at the time of the Conquest, and maternally derived their surname from William de St. John, who entered England with the Conqueror, whose army he attended as grand-master of the artillery, and supervisor of the waggons and carriages.

From him, the 13th in lineal descent, was sir Oliver

St. John, who had 2 sons: 1. sir John, ancestor to the baron St. John, of Bletso; and 2. Oliver, who d. at Fort-Arabia, in Spain, in 1492, and was the ancestor of the present bart. This family have, through all their generations, allied themselves to ancient and noble families.

I. Sir PAULET, the present baronet's grandfather, m. 1st, a daughter of sir John Rushout, bart.; 2dly, Maria, widow of sir Haswell Tynte; and 3dly, Jane, widow of William Pescod, esq. recorder of Winchester. In the year 1734, he represented co. Hants, and soon afterwards the city of Winchester. He was created a bart. in 1772, and d. in 1780, and was succeeded by his eldest son by his 2d lady,

II. Sir HENRY-PAULET, who likewise represented co. Hants, in 2 successive parliaments, and m. Dorothea-Maria, da. and co-heiress of Abraham Tucker, esq., and d. in 1784, was succeeded by his only son,

III. Sir HENRY PAULET (now MILDMAY), m., in 1786, Jane, eldest da. and co-heiress of Carew Mildmay, of Shawford-house, co. Hants, esq. and obtained, in 1790, his majesty's permission to use the name and bear the arms of Mildmay; and had, 1. sir Henry-Carew, 4th bart.; 2.
